CONFIRMED PROOF

Residents of Barre Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ailments—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Barre, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Barre kidney sufferers.

Norman York, 29 Branch street, Barre, Vt., says: "I was subject for six years to attacks of kidney trouble. I had pains in my back and was led to believe my kidneys were out of order by the too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. If I stooped or lifted it was with the greatest difficulty that I could regain an erect position. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. A. Drown's drug store, and their effect was wonderful. The pain in my back soon ceased and the kidney secretions became more regular."

The above statement was given on November 10th, 1905, and was confirmed by Mrs. York on October 1st, 1908. She said: "Mr. York still thinks well of Doan's Kidney Pills, and has always recommended this remedy when he has had the opportunity."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FARMERS FOUNDING BANKS.

Interesting Aspects of a Movement Which Goes on Extending.

The farmer-banker is becoming an important factor in the interior towns. In literally hundreds of little towns, some with not more than 150 population, have been started banks during the past three or four years. Many of these have farmers as stockholders and officers. Some of them are practically owned by farmers, only one or two stockholders being from the town.

These banks got large deposits because they draw from farming sections that have been prosperous during the past decade, and the fact that leading farmers are stockholders gives prestige to the institution. Indeed, this is so well understood that most new banks in the farming sections try to secure as many farmer stockholders as possible. It is not uncommon to find small banks with nine or eleven directors nearly all of whom are farmers, placed there because of the benefit to be derived from the advertising.

The influence of this is directly toward conservation. The farmer believes in making the bank safe; hence he looks with doubt on commercial paper and ties his faith to farm mortgages and similar investments. If nothing offers he keeps the money in the vault until at times banks have 65 to 70 per cent of their deposits in cash and sight exchange. He likewise has a well defined doubtfulness of everything that savors of Wall street and cautions his officers to use great care. This is particularly true since the flurry of 1907, and it results in tying up a great deal of money that should be working. The farmer-banker is being educated, but at present he is a factor to be considered in the estimate of interior bank conditions.

The bank commissioner has found a new scheme in bank promoting. He discovered that in the small towns of the central and western counties of the state men are organizing banks as speculations. The promoter goes to towns that have already more banks than needed and easily finds investors ready to put in money because of the banking craze and the advertising they get from being bank officers and stockholders. To push the matter the names of leading men of the state who are said to be interested are used without their knowledge. The promoter puts in very little money and usually manages to get that out as soon as the bank starts. Incidentally he sells bank fixtures, safes and stationery, from which he reaps a commission of $500 or more. He moves on to a new town and works the plan over again. This has become so common that the banking department has aired the plan and has exposed some specific instances, hoping it will put a stop to the practice.

What Becomes of the Corn.
People often wonder, particularly those who have traveled for hundreds of miles through the corn belt, what becomes of corn which is grown every year. In the year 1908, when the total crop was 2,660,000,000 bushels, 241,000,000 bushels were consumed in food and grist mill products, 8,000,000 bushels in the manufacture of starch, 9,000,000 bushels for malt liquors, 17,000,000 bushels in the production of distilled liquors, 40,000,000 bushels for glucose, 100,000,000 bushels for export and 13,000,000 bushels for seed, making a total of 518,000,000 bushels, or 19.3 per cent of the entire crop. The remaining 80.7 per cent, or 2,142,000,000 bushels, seems to have been used almost entirely for feeding.

A Wonderful Blackberry.
Although the planting season for many fruits is gone, it is not too late to mention a species of blackberry known as the Logan. It is very successful in England and can be adapted to some climates in our country. It yields wonderful crops. While the plants are perfecting their fruits new comes, somewhat like those of the raspberry, spring from the base. This is the next season's fruiting wood and must be attended to. The Logan berry makes a very free growth, and winds soon twist the shoots, which must then be supported. After the crop has been gathered the old fruiting wood is cut out, and the new shoots from the base take its place. The plants fruit in July and August, and do well on a north wall or high fence or may be trained to wires or iron hurdles. The fruits are esteemed for preserving much the same culture is required where the blackberry is grown in the garden. The wincherry is an excellent fruit for preserving or for tarts and is prolific. It makes a strong growth and requires a similar treatment to the Logan berry. It is welcome in the shrubbery or on a fence, and it makes much wood. Other berries such as the huckleberry are grown for garnishing and generally as bushes in shrubberies.

FANNED!

When the sun boils down and the heat sinks in, we all want to be fanned. There is only one way—the electric way.

Electric fans cost only $9.00 and take about as much current as an 8 candle power lamp.

Therefore it is not expensive to be "fanned" occasionally.

And it is only one of the comforts at the call of the man who uses electric light.
